ABOUT MYSELF

I'm Janki Mashruwala, I was born and brought up in the city called Surat. I have an innate liking for intricate patterns inspired by nature and architectural monuments. I believe that what makes my work unique is the process that goes behind it because one cannot come up with one of a kind design if they don't truly understand that product. I like to educate myself through different sources whenever I can because I believe that knowledge is power. I enjoy working with colours and shapes because while doing so I can use colour psychology to make my the final outcome more effective. But I'm more than my work. I'm an empath, a dreamer, a good listener and someone who likes having new experiences.
