12. Statement of Purpose: Set out below your reasons for choosing this particular course of study, how it relates to your previous study and/or employment, why you have chosen to study in Ireland rather than in your home country and its relevance to your future career/educational Plans

Respected Officer,

This statement of purpose is written in support of my next important academic and career move, which is to enrol in Dublin Business School's Master of Science (MSc) in Business Analytics programme in Ireland.

My name is Rohan Jacob Ambat, and I am passionate about using data-driven insights to foster innovation and business growth. I am well-positioned to make a significant contribution to the ever-evolving field of business analytics because of my strong background in marketing and business development and my acute understanding of data analytics. My technical and communication abilities have greatly improved as a result of my studies at the school and college. My ideas and the way I carry them out are unique and inventive. I make a constant effort to uphold positive relationships with other people. My undergraduate degree is the most advanced and latest credential I have. I received my degree from Alagappa University's Sethupathi College of Arts, where I also finished my B.Com. in computer application.

Why Dublin Business School (DBS) in Ireland?

In order to choose a good location for my further education, I researched a number of nations, including the US, UK, Europe, and Ireland. Ireland is the best place to study abroad, according to my research. Ireland is renowned for its excellent educational system. Several statistics that have been released state that the Irish government spends an incredible $782 million annually on research, mostly in higher education. This has sparked the development of high-quality education in the nation by building a number of highly regarded universities that grant degrees recognised across the globe. With their strong resumes, international students can earn scholarships, which lowers the cost of life and even educational expenses. Also, Ireland offers reasonably priced education in comparison to other western nations, especially the US. Finally, international students can safely pursue higher education in this nation. Known as the I.T. technology capital of Europe, Ireland is home to over a thousand of the world's most prestigious multinational corporations. These include the massive foreign direct investments (FDI) in ICT, Pharma, Social media, and Finance that have established this nation as the centre of their European operations. Large corporations and brands such as Google, HP, Apple, IBM, Facebook, LinkedIn, Twitter, Pfizer, GSK, and Genzyme are increasingly ubiquitous. This will enable me to apply for any of these companies' internship programmes and even seek a well-placed job in India after the completion of my studies. Along with these well-known global brands, a large number of recently founded small and medium-sized businesses have prospered. This will undoubtedly give my resume a boost, which is yet another explanation for why I chose to study here. Ireland continues to be ranked as the world's friendliest nation by "Lonely Planet" as of 2010. With all of these advantages, I ultimately decided to pursue my master's programme in DBS, Ireland.

Reputably, Dublin Business School provides a broad selection of undergraduate and graduate programmes. It is renowned for having the most up-to-date campuses with cutting-edge amenities for students. In addition to providing highly relevant programmes that are tailored to meet market demands, it boasts one of the top student support services. Most significantly, it provides me with a respectable scholarship, thus lowering the expense of my studies in Ireland. Its kind and knowledgeable teaching staff is supportive. It is situated in the Docklands neighbourhood of central Dublin, which is home to numerous businesses, including Facebook, PWC, Citibank, and many more. Situated in the centre of Dublin and in the busy capital city, DBS would provide me with a wide range of cultural opportunities. The institution would give me the knowledge and abilities I need to be successful in the business sector by emphasising real-world, hands-on learning. It would also create a welcoming, inclusive environment that promotes both professional and personal development. My long-term goal is to start my own business and grow professionally, and I am confident that enrolling at the Dublin School of Business will put me in the right direction. I decided on Dublin Business School as my ultimate destination for my Masters in Business Analytics because of the above-mentioned facilities.

Why I chose MSc Business Analytics from DBS?

There are multiple reasons why I selected DBS' MSc in Business Analytics. First of all, the extensive curriculum of the programme is exactly in line with my professional goals. With classes covering everything from data visualisation and business intelligence to statistical analysis and predictive modelling, I'm sure I'll get a strong foundation in the technical and analytical abilities required to take on challenging business problems. I'm also quite drawn to Dublin Business School because of its stellar academic reputation and strong industrial ties. I am thrilled about the chance to interact with individuals from top firms through networking events and guest lectures, as well as to learn from esteemed faculty members who are authorities in the subject of business analytics. I also find the programme's emphasis on real-world projects and practical application to be quite appealing. To fully understand the complexities of business analytics, practical experience is, in my opinion, vital. During the programme, I will have the opportunity to work on industry projects and internships, which will give me useful insights and help me develop a well-rounded skill set. Finally, the dynamic and diverse learning atmosphere at Dublin Business School is what draws me in. Engaging with peers from other cultural and ethnic origins will enhance my educational journey while promoting cooperation and expanding my viewpoints. In conclusion, I am certain that Dublin Business School's MSc in Business Analytics is the ideal choice for achieving both my academic and professional objectives. I am thrilled to contribute to the programme and use the knowledge I acquire to advance the business analytics industry. I appreciate your consideration of my application. I'm excited about the chance to join Dublin Business School and start this life-changing adventure.

Finances

I am well-anchored in my pursuit of higher learning in Ireland considering a strong financial base. My parents have saved a total of Rs 21,64,685.63 and with their help, my academic journey is well-positioned for success. In addition, my tuition has already been paid in full, so I don't have to worry about money getting in the way of my desire to further my education. The financials furnished above would cover all my expenses while I am in Ireland. This stable financial situation not only shows that I am ready for the challenges of the classroom, but it also shows that I have made a laudable commitment to investing in my future. With my financial foundation solidly in place, I am now prepared to welcome my academic endeavours in Ireland with open arms.

Future Plans

After I finish my master's degree, a variety of job prospects will become available from all around the world, but I prefer to fly back home and seek a job position. My family and my house are my place of kinship, and I firmly believe that after I begin working, it is my duty to do everything in my power to support them. As a Business Analyst, I aim to work with prestigious multinational corporations such as Google, Amazon, and many more. I'm hoping to make between INR 7 LPA and INR 17.5 LPA as a starter here. After three to five years, I would advance to positions in project management, information technology, such as product manager, senior/lead business analyst, and consulting, with compensation packages again ranging from INR 19 LPA to INR 27.5 LPA. I'm excited to launch a consulting business once I start making a nice living. These businesses operate in India as well, and they are actively seeking out top talent. With my international experience and my Irish master's degree, I will be positioned to succeed and have a long-term, very stable career in the IT sector and top MNCs.

Conclusion

I promise that after completing my course, I would go back home and look for work. Without a doubt, the knowledge and abilities I acquire in Ireland will greatly enhance my professional life and eventually help my native nation. Please carefully review my application and get me a study permit so that I can stay in Ireland and continue to work towards my professional and academic objectives. I commit to being a law-abiding, responsible student, and I'm prepared to follow through on all visa requirements.

I am eager to commence my master's program at Dublin Business School, Ireland. I hope my profile will be accepted and I get a student visa.

Thanking You
Rohan Jacob Ambat
