

Statement of purpose

I have always been fascinated by the complex functions of the human body and the significant positive effects that compassionate healthcare can have on people's lives and communities. My path to becoming a doctor has been influenced by various factors, including my academic interests, my clinical experiences, and my innate drive to improve the lives of others.

I started my educational career with a solid background in the sciences. I am interested in the biological causes of illnesses and their therapeutic applications. In addition to sharpening my analytical and problem-solving abilities, this experience stoked my interest in medical research and its potential to lead to innovations in patient care.

One of the most important times in my life was starting medical school at Galala University in Egypt. I now have a thorough awareness of the human body, illness processes, and the value of patient-centered treatment thanks to the demanding curriculum and clinical rotations. Every clinical rotation has provided new insights and difficulties. These have strengthened my resolve to pursue a medical profession and the chance to develop vital abilities like empathy, critical thinking, and communication.

My principles and professional aspirations are ideally aligned with the university's emphasis on comprehensive patient care, research possibilities, and commitment to quality in medical education. I want to work with esteemed professors and contribute to active research projects. I do not doubt that a demanding curriculum and a wide range of clinical experiences will give me the information and abilities I need to develop into a kind and capable doctor.

To sum up, my enthusiasm for research, my devotion to patient care, and my will to overcome healthcare disparities have all motivated me on this journey. With my strong academic background, practical experiences, and persistent commitment to the medical industry, I believe I am a good match for your program. I appreciate your consideration of this application.

Sincerely,

Amr Mohamed Mahmoud

agad4030@gmail.com

+201122873531 / +971505089693