

Letter of Recommendation

It gives me immense pleasure to recommend Apsara Khan, one of the most hardworking and diligent students I have come across during my tenure as a teacher at Varendra University. I have taught Apsara courses like Principles of Marketing, Integrated Marketing Communication, Bangladesh Economics, and Macro Economics. Across these courses, there was a clear understanding of the contents, and she scored a perfect grade of '4'.

Apsara, an academically bright student, also enjoys participating in co-curricular and other related activities. From my experience as the Business Club moderator, she is a good leader with excellent organizational skills. She has been able to anchor programs like seminars and Freshers Orientation, where she has demonstrated good spoken skills. She has been exceptional in presentation competitions, book review writing, and poetry recitation, receiving many awards and appreciation. I served as a judge on many of these occasions and had the opportunity to observe her perfect manners and her ability to public speak.

It is also important to mention that Apsara possesses magnificent critical thinking qualities. For this reason, she tackles most issues with a lot of logic and can easily arrange and coordinate facts to reach the most logical conclusion. Being her subject matter expert in marketing and economics, I have observed that her learning and communication skills are evident in her coursework and her capability to explain issues in simple and comprehensible language.

Aside from her academic achievements, club involvement, and community service, Apsara's dedication to personal and career development is evident. She works as a language trainer for the YLE language course, assisted by the British Council, and performs duties that prove her compassion toward people and her desire to develop herself. Juggling between academic work and a working calendar as a part-time employee is strong evidence of time management and professionalism.

In summary, Apsara Khan is highly motivated and capable and will excel in her postgraduate studies. Her academic prowess, leadership qualities, and dedication to continuous learning make her an ideal candidate for your program. I wholeheartedly endorse her application and am confident she will significantly contribute to your institution.

Please get in touch with me if you require further information or have any questions.

Sincerely,
