

Statement of purpose

“Leadership is the art of giving people a platform for spreading the ideas that work”- Seth Godin. Doing business with different people needs a thorough understanding in the field of Management. It has motivated me to apply for the Masters in International Management in International Business School in Hungary.

I completed my schooling at Talent Public School, Narakkal where the school’s motto of “Dream believe and achieve” was instilled in me at a very nascent age. The urge to follow these ideals made a big difference in my life. Active involvement in school activity helped me nurture my leadership and organization skills. Core values such as honesty, integrity, discipline, respect and teamwork were deep rooted in our learning through our mentors and coaches.

I have always had an inquisitive mind. This passion combined with inquisitiveness led me to take commerce at Sree Narayana higher secondary school. During this time, I actively participated in sports and other extracurricular activities which helped to gain confidence and public speaking skills.

I progressed from being a keen observer to an enthusiastic participant and a leader. While doing my graduation, BA. Economics at Sacred Heart College, I learnt a lot other than academics. During the department festivals, I involved myself in financial management and found it interesting. Whilst learning the technicalities during my course, I also did an Internship at Hedge Equities as BPO. The process and the inputs from my seniors and teacher helped me to discover my aptitude in business. I had a wonderful opportunity to undergo professional training and worked for 11 months as Jr. Executive Medical Coder. This brief exposure to the corporate world has made me decide on taking a Masters.

My father is running his own business, I have watched him since childhood and the way he manages the business has always inspired me. I saw that he made quick decisions, spoke to his partners and business association, interacted with customers and clients and that he managed business successfully. I always knew my father had been doing a tough job and I always wanted to help him. My father taught me to dream big, encouraged me to learn from good schools and wanted me to think of doing a business by myself. After doing a Master's program in International Management. I would like to work in India to understand application of the knowledge and skills gained in day-to-day work and management. I am sure that I can leverage my managerial, communication, interpersonal and people skills that I gain from the Masters program to build a career and have a business of my own someday.

The Master in International Management at International Business School helps students to have a solid background in management and broaden their knowledge and expertise in the chosen specialization. In addition to that, this course helps us to become future leaders and managers in the global business world. Moreover, the university has got seasoned professors and long to be part of refined academic infrastructure in this country. It would be a gratifying experience for me to pursue the programme at one of the most esteemed institutions across the globe. I have also found academic curriculum relevant to my area of interest.
