TERMS AND CONDITIONS ON TUITION FEES REFUNDS

Scheduled start of education: January 2025

Depending on the type of default, tuition fee of EUR is refunded partially based on the following rules:

1. 90% tuition fee is refunded if

- Student has not yet started training, and his/her residence permit application is still in process - a refund request may be considered upon submission of comprehensive medical documentation that substantiates a prolonged inability to initiate studies. Eligible medical conditions must entail significant illnesses or injuries that have significantly compromised the student's health to the extent that they cannot commence training for a minimum duration of 6 months. To seek a refund under these circumstances, the student is required to provide a refund application accompanied by corroborating evidence. Acceptable medical documentation should be in the form of a dated letter issued by a qualified medical professional, dated no more than 14 days prior to submission. This letter must explicitly detail the nature of the illness or injury, specify the relevant dates, and outline the severity of the condition. It is essential to note that medical documentation pertaining to psychological issues will not be considered for refund purposes.
- In cases where a student has not yet initiated their training and their residence permit application is still pending, a refund request may be considered due to a death within the student's immediate family, including parents, children, or siblings. To qualify for a refund on these grounds, the student must submit an apostilled death certificate as supporting documentation. The application for a refund based on this reason must be submitted no later than three months before scheduled beginning of education.

2. 0% of tuition fee is refunded if

- Student does not appear or request refunds after the start of the program .
- Student is expelled on reasons set in Institution Rules or law
- Residence permit is refused based on:
 - false, inaccurate, deceiving or otherwise incomplete data was presented,
 - false/counterfeit/forged travel or other document was presented,
 - an alert issued in the European Information System for the purpose of refusing entry,

- inappropriate/missing proof of sufficient means of subsistence,
- information submitted regarding the justification for the purpose and conditions of the intended stay was not accepted/reliable/valid,
- one or more EU member states considers applicant a threat to public safety or internal relations,
- if student droop/resign from language programme after start of education.

A student is eligible for a tuition fee refund exclusively upon completing a formal withdrawal from the training program. To initiate the refund process, the student must complete and submit the refund application form to the Institution Office. Subsequently, the Institution Committee will assess the application, and its decision shall be considered final.
