

Statement of Purpose

My name is Muhammed Nihal Nazer, and I recently completed my 12th grade in 2024 with a score of 58%, following my 10th-grade results in 2022, where I secured 86%. Throughout my academic journey, I have developed a keen interest in international issues, diplomacy, and the way nations collaborate on a global scale. This passion has driven me to apply for the Bachelor's in International Relations at Vistula University, Warsaw, Poland.

International Relations has always fascinated me as it involves understanding the dynamics between countries, global organizations, and how decisions made at international levels affect the entire world. With globalization playing a crucial role in today's interconnected world, it is important for nations to have strong diplomatic ties and work together to address common challenges. My desire to delve deeper into these matters and be part of the solution motivates me to pursue this degree.

Why Vistula University?

Vistula University offers the perfect platform to cultivate my interest in International Relations. The 3-year program is designed to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of political science, global governance, and international law. The multidisciplinary nature of the course ensures that students not only learn the theories behind international politics but also how these theories are applied in real-world scenarios.

What excites me about Vistula University is its focus on fostering a global mindset by encouraging students from different countries to work and learn together. The diverse student body and faculty with international experience create a stimulating environment for discussions and exchanges of ideas. I believe this multicultural exposure will be key in helping me understand international diplomacy from various perspectives and allow me to grow both academically and personally.

Why Poland?

Poland, with its rich history and strategic location in Europe, is a country that has experienced significant transformations in recent decades. Its role as a bridge between Western and Eastern Europe makes it an ideal place to study international relations. Warsaw, being a major political and economic center, is home to numerous embassies and international organizations, giving students firsthand exposure to the workings of global diplomacy.

Poland is also becoming increasingly popular as a destination for international students because of its high-quality education, affordable tuition fees, and relatively low cost of living. Studying in Warsaw will allow me to experience European culture while staying within a budget that is manageable for international students.

Program Benefits

The International Relations program at Vistula University will equip me with critical thinking and analytical skills needed to understand the complexities of international affairs. The courses offered cover a wide range of topics, including international law, political systems, foreign policy analysis, and global security. These subjects will help me build a strong foundation and prepare me for the diverse challenges that come with working in the field of international relations.

Another significant aspect of the program is its practical approach. With opportunities for internships, workshops, and collaboration with international institutions, I will be able to apply theoretical knowledge in real-world settings, gaining valuable experience that will be essential for my career.

Career Opportunities

The field of international relations offers a variety of career paths that align with my ambitions. Upon completing the program, I aim to pursue a career in diplomatic services, global governance, or work with international organizations like the United Nations or other NGOs. The ability to work in such environments, where I can contribute to peacebuilding, diplomatic negotiations, and fostering cooperation between nations, excites me.

The skills I will gain from the program—such as diplomacy, negotiation, and policy analysis—will open doors to various career opportunities, including roles in government agencies, multinational corporations, or think tanks that focus on international affairs. In today's world, professionals who understand global issues and can navigate the complexities of international relations are in high demand.

Future Plans

After completing my degree, I plan to return to India and use the skills and knowledge gained during my time in Poland to contribute to my country's role on the global stage. India's increasing importance in international affairs, particularly in areas like trade, diplomacy, and global security, provides numerous opportunities for someone with a background in international relations.

My ultimate goal is to work within the Indian Foreign Services or a prominent international organization where I can help shape policies that promote global cooperation and resolve conflicts. I am also open to exploring opportunities in international trade, as India continues to grow as a major player in global markets.

Conclusion

In conclusion, I am eager to embark on this academic journey at Vistula University, where I can immerse myself in the study of International Relations and take advantage of the opportunities the university and the country offer. The program's focus on practical learning, combined with Poland's vibrant academic environment, will provide me with the necessary tools to achieve my goals. I am confident that studying in Poland will not only enrich my understanding of global affairs but also equip me with the skills to contribute meaningfully to India's international presence.

Thank you for considering my application.

Muhammed Nihal Nazer