ABOUT ME

As a Software Engineer and Database Administrator with 3 years of experience, I am proficient in Python for scripting and web application development, leveraging frameworks such as Django and Flask to optimize performance. In front-end development, I excel at creating responsive interfaces using React.js, HTML, CSS, and JavaScript. I also have expertise in managing SQL and NoSQL databases, particularly MongoDB, where I design schemas and ensure data integrity and security.

I am committed to continuous learning and professional development, constantly enhancing my skills to remain at the forefront of the rapidly evolving field of software engineering.
