I, Garima Chhabra's biology teacher strongly recommend her candidature for your medical school. Journey to become a doctor is indeed a long one and I have seen Garima handling everything with stoic patience and relentless hardwork which makes her a suitable candidate for medicine in my eyes. Her serene and kind personality combined with her drive to go beyond her limits impressed me throughout my journey of teaching her. Her curiosity to always try something different and more challenging from the regular path is one of her unique qualities. She is always keen to help out people around her in whatever way she can even if it means going beyond her limits. She has an outstanding ability to relate scientific theories and concepts with real life scenarios. Garima compares favorably with the rest, among my students. I am sure she will make an outperforming graduate student. She has been forthcoming with answers to questions raised by me during the lectures sessions and I have found her to be a lively, modest and an honest student. She did a good job in her high school exams but I am sure she will perform way better in her future academic life if she is given the chance to study medicine. In addition to her academic achievements, Garima is an exemplary individual with a strong moral character. Her confidence, talent, maturity, and interest makes her a deserving candidate to pursue medicine at your university. I offer her my best wishes for her medical school and gradually, a successful professional career.
