

I am Rettin Michael and am from Ernakulam, Kerala, India. My father Michael Kx is a Maison, my mother Tency is a homemaker, and I have a younger brother named Rhyphin who is presently enrolled in the final year of a Bachelor of Commerce program in computer application. I received 80% in my secondary education at Lobelia Higher Secondary School in Ernakulam in 2018 and 68% in my senior secondary education at Bhagavathy Vilasam Higher Secondary School in 2020, where I concluded my schooling. Then, in 2023, I graduated with a 5.43 CCPA from Sree Narayana Arts and Science College, Kadamangalam, North Paravur, which is associated with Mahatma Gandhi University, Kerala, India, with a Bachelor of Commerce degree in Computer Application. During my academic years, I mostly pursued business related programs via senior secondary studies in commerce and a bachelor of commerce degree, following my secondary level studies. This is what convinced me to enroll in Ibs MSC program in international management in Austria.

I recently mentioned after my secondary level studies, I get a passion towards international business management field, because of that after I choose Bachelors of commerce degree. Then also I had an interest towards this field from my younger age itself. Moreover, I have a cousin sister, she is currently married and living with a family, although her academic qualifications also based on Accounting and finance. Furthermore, she is lastly done her masters, MSC in international management in SN GIST college in India, she who introduced to me selecting MSC in international business management in Ibs in Austria. Although, she always tell to me about life time benefits get from Accounting and finance, huge number of job opportunities available in different destinations after that masters program, and it definitely helps to create a great impact on our future life. Then, also I am think I have a passion towards business management reason for that I researched number of times through google and also with other applications websites and so on. Later, I read it's modules connected through each semesters, eventually I have get a detailed information about this program. After that, I am compared this program Msc in International management with my previous studies, then I realised that I have a base towards business management field and also this obviously helps for choosing this masters program. Moreover, I interested well about this program structures, mainly this program have one and half year duration, also it contains three semesters, although I hope that it provide a great future for everyone.

I performed a lot of research before deciding to pursue an overseas master's degree and choosing a university. In the end, I was relieved to discover "International Business School," which piqued my curiosity. The main reasons for choosing this institution are its stellar career connections, which have grown over many years and through several companies, and its reputation as one of Austria's best and most popular universities. The International Business School also focuses on practical skills, which will give me the knowledge and abilities to meet the challenges of a changing business environment. Some of the topics are excited covering in these classes include entrepreneurial venture development, leading and managing people, skills for managers and business strategies. When choosing ibs , I have also taken into account the resources offered to international students like myself. Some facilities are excellent; for example, overseas student support facilitates socialization with new overseas students. With the help of this international business school's course, I may broaden my academic horizons, learn how to interact and communicate with people from other cultural backgrounds, and acquire the skills I need to improve my online reputation.

Austria the best destination I could think of for my post-graduation, so I didn't have to consider other ooptions. Austria is renowned for its high-quality, internationally-focused education, diversified cultural offerings, and highly qualified faculty. Worldwide recognition for Austrian education ensures that a person with an Austrian degree will always be at the top of any list. Austria has a distinctive teaching approach that includes private tutors to assist students with their academic work. The master's program's one and half duration, which includes industry practices and will give me strong industrial exposure, is another significant benefit I discovered. Due to Austria's high proportion of international students, it will be beneficial to engage with students from various cultural backgrounds and expand my social status. India's master's program still adheres to a traditional curriculum that emphasizes theoretical subjects, whereas ibs—which are more popular in Austria—focus more on practical knowledge with critical thinking, analysis, and evolution.

I have plenty of options in my own nation after successfully completing this course, therefore I won't need to look outside of it for a career. With a focus on industries like banking, financial services, e-commerce, manufacturing, and technology, India's economy is expected to continue growing. In order to handle business operations, reporting, and analysis, there is a growing need for qualified management specialists. The range of business employment is growing as a result of government initiatives including financial transaction digitization, financial inclusion initiatives, and regulatory improvements in the business fields. I therefore don't think it will be difficult for me to get a job here after finishing such a great study from a nation that provides international education. In addition, there are numerous private sector businesses including Bajaj Finance, HDFC Bank, ICIC Bank, Infosys, Reliance Industries, and some branded microfinance, among others. The future of business in India is bright.
